S. T.—1869.—X.—The amount of Plantation Bitters sold in one year is something startling. They would fill Broadway six feet high, from the Park to 4th street.—Drake's manufactory is one of the institutions of N. York. It is said that Drake painted all the rocks in the eastern States with his cabalistic "S. T.—1860.—X," and then got the old granny legislators to pass a law "preventing disfiguring the face of nature," which gives him a monopoly We do not know how this is, but we do know the Plantation Bitters sell as no other article ever did. They are used by all classes of the community, and are death on Dyspepsia—certain. They are very invigorating when languid and weak, and a great appetizer.

WHAT DID IT?—A young lady, returning to her country home after a sojourn of a few months in New York, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruby complexion, of almost marble smoothness; and instead of 22, she really appeared but 17. She told them plainly she used Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and would not be without it. Any lady can improve her personal appearance very much by using this article. It can be ordered of any Druggist for only 50 cents.

Our Correspondence.

WILLIAMSBURG, June 29, 1866.

DEAR GLOBE:—Having sojourned in "ye ancient borough" some months—sufficiently long at least to form many acquaintances, and very favorable opinions of your town and institutions—we were extremely loth and reluctant to retire from so many fine associations to take up our abode in this historic town of the Juniata, not that we dislike this place, but that we admire the "old corporation" more.

Williamsburg is situated on the river Juniata, at the north-east terminus of Morrison's Cove, and has associated with it, many phases of history. It is neatly laid out, with wide streets, and contains many handsome residences and public buildings. Among the latter we might name M. E., Presbyterian and Catholic churches, which for style and architectural appearance, would do justice to some of our more pretending towns. There are in all, as nearly as we have discovered, ten stores, two hotels, anthracite furnace, and many other useful establishments, which together with an Academy, Good Templars and Odd Fellows lodges, makes it rather attractive than otherwise. The latter, with the fine churches, in comparison to the paucity of hotels and drinking saloons, argues much for the moral and intellectual character of the citizens.

Though we cannot boast a Castilian or Eureka, a cornet and string band, Base Ball clubs, and many other amusing institutions with which your town is so happily blessed, yet all in all, it is rather an admiring place. The majestic hills, the broad expanse of the great cove, the gentle murmuring of the blue Juniata, whose fertile banks are crowned with stately timber, peering out from among the green foliage of which are the renowned Indian or Steeple Rocks towering far above the church steeples, upon whose rugged peaks no civilized foot, in all probability, has ever stood. These all combine to obviate the dull monotony of the town, and would make a magnificent subject for the pencil of an artist.

Neff's spring, by which name it is known, is another of nature's grand designs. This spring issues from the foot of a hill in the south-west part of the town, on the property of Mr. John K. Neff. This powerful, though not valuable body of water discharges its limpid waters into a large basin of, about 60 feet square, neatly and artistically gotten up, which with the fine foliage and handsome buildings, with which the surroundings are adorned, indicate the good taste of the proprietor. From this reservoir it is conveyed, and employed in running a saw mill, tannery, grist mill, foundry, and furnace, when it empties into the Juniata, and serves for like power in its onward course to the great deep. We have often thought that to place this spring in the hands of your townsman, Col. E. C. Summers, he would not only make a Castilian but a Paradise of repose and resort for weary nature, after submitting to the scorching rays of a summer's sun.

HAGERSTOWN, MD., June 28th, '66.

EDITOR "GLOBE."—Thinking that a few lines from one who has been a reader and admirer of your very patriotic sheet, would not be rejected, I have concluded to write to you and give you the news as far as possible from Hagerstown and Maryland in general. Hagerstown, the county seat of Washington County, Maryland, is a thriving town of about 3,000 inhabitants, containing two printing presses, a seminary and two academies, and a great number of stores, &c., generally found in large towns. The crops in Maryland generally are good—in fact better than last year—though the grain is not so tall nor so thickly sown as last year, yet it is much better filled and consequently there is an increase. The farmers have not yet commenced harvesting but expect to commence next week. The weather has been excellent for harvesting for the last few days and we hope it shall continue so. Politics rage to a greater extent in this State than in the old Keystone, and Johnson clubs are being formed everywhere throughout the State, and Mass meetings are all the go. The people of Maryland in general are opposed to negro suffrage, and think the negro should be colonized, for they are overrun with them here. The railroad that is being laid from Hagerstown to Harper's Ferry is progressing finely and they think it will be finished about the last of this year, when it will be at once put in operation. It is what has long been needed here to connect Pennsylvania directly with Virginia, and the owners are confident of a great amount of travelling over this road. As I have given you the news I will close for the present by subscribing myself. Yours &c.,

ALPHA.

Letter from the West.

DAVENPORT, IOWA, June 22d, '66.

DEAR "GLOBE."—After a long silence, I thought I would drop you a few lines from this garden-land, so that you, as well as our old friends in the east, may know that we still breathe the delicious of aroma prairie vegetation and flowers. We have had a very backward spring here, and consequently the corn crops are not so developed in growth as generally at this season of the year. Still, if the weather should continue warm and as favorable as it is at the present writing, we will have very heavy crops. Our wheat, barley, oats, and potatoes, promise heavy yields; and with present prices, will realize large profits to the farmer. Wheat sells now, from $1,75 down to $1,00, according as it is uninjured or otherwise by the rains of last harvest. This country, as it now is covered with its rich green carpet, is truly, "a thing of beauty," and a joy to the eyes of all who appreciate the grand in nature. The Arsenal on the Island lying between our "Twin Cities," is still progressing finely, and will be a splendid national work, when finished. As those know, who have seen it, Rock Island lies in the "Father of Waters," between Davenport and Rock Island cities, about three miles in length, and from one to one mile in breadth, and at all times above high water mark. On the point or lower end of this splendid spot of land, are the ruins of old Fort Armstrong, the site of the transfer of Chieftainey over the Sac and Fox tribes of Indians from Black Hawk to Keokuck. This occurred in 1833, when Davenport was a wilderness. Great groves of native timber then covered the ground on both sides of the river, where now two beautiful and prosperous cities lift their spires above the plain. And, here, on this historical Island was murdered the excellent old Col. Davenport, in his own house by the fort, amid the quiet of a Fourth of July, in broad day light, whilst the soldiers and the few settlers around him were dancing on Rock River celebrating the birth day of freedom.

We were gratified, a couple of weeks since, with a visit from our old friends, Mr. & Mrs. S. T. Brown of your goodly borough, and last week we had the pleasure of a call from Dr. Rowan Clark of Blair County, and Mr. James T. Scott of Cleveland, Ohio, both original citizens of your place. To day—St. John's day—there is a great Masonic festival, procession and picnic, at Rock Island, and the day is Heavenly indeed. We have had much rain for the last month, and a great thunder storm yesterday morning, in which an Irishman, Patrick Connelly, was killed by lightning in Rock Island. In regard to politics, this State is undoubtedly radical. T. P. C.

The United States Senator.

The Special correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from Harrisburg, the other day, gives a very interesting account of the different candidates for the United States Senatorship, and their respective strength. It will be seen that he awards the votes of Lancaster county to Mr. Cameron, and against Gov. Curtin. In this the Lancaster Inquirer thinks he is mistaken, and says that Gov. Curtin to-day has fully nine out of every ten Republican votes in that county. But to the letter:

The correspondent says that there is at present more than usual interest centering in this usually quiet and sleepy town, on account of the coming election, which not only involves a choice of a Governor, but also that of a Senator to succeed Mr. Cowan. It is generally felt that the next House and Senate will be Republican. There are enough men holding over in the Senate to make a Republican majority, even if the doubtful Senatorial districts go Democratic. The friends of Mr. Cameron and Mr. Curtin, who are the Montague and Capulet of Republican politics in Pennsylvania, are very active, and, at the same time, very quiet. There is among our prominent politicians a hesitation to take ground on national questions, because, with the proverbial hesitation of Pennsylvania public men, they prefer to wait and see how the sentiment of the people flows. President Johnson and his "Policy" have a very strong party, particularly in those large Democratic counties, which have, according to popular tradition, voted for Andrew Jackson for the last thirty years.

The candidates for Senator are Simon Cameron, formerly Secretary of War; the present Governor, Andrew G. Curtin; Thomas Williams and J. K. Moorhead of Allegheny, now in Congress; W. D. Kelley of Philadelphia; Judge Wilmot, and John W. Forney. Each of these candidates is sanguine of success; and, as they all have a respectable following of friends, it is amusing to examine their speculations. The leading candidate, Mr. Cameron, who lives near this town, and has a singular personal influence in the central part of Pennsylvania, owning large interests in railroad companies here besides being a man of vast fortune, has lived here for the greater part of his life. The abuse heaped upon Mr. Cameron in other States has not alienated many of his friends, and they work for him with a spirit of enthusiasm that is quite marvelous to those who do not understand his peculiar relations to the people.

Gov. Curtin is eminently one of the most popular men in Pennsylvania, and has done well during the six years of his administration. Without any of those peculiar elements of character, which make Mr. Cameron, as it were, the head of a tribe of Highlandmen, and give him a following as large and as devoted as a Celt to his Chief, Gov. Curtin has a pleasant way about him; is an amiable, clever—what might be called a jolly man—and is untiring on the stump. He is the choice of all those who are opposed to Mr. Cameron per se. His main strength lies in Philadelphia, where six years of Governorship has enabled him to make many friends by a judicious use of patronage. Gov. Curtin has not taken any decided action upon the questions now agitating the country, but is supposed to be a Conservative Republican. There was a rumor recently that he was going to Italy, and his friends now say that the mission has been placed at his disposal by President Johnson, but, in the event of his success as Senator, it is hardly possible that he will care to have a foreign mission.

Mr. Williams of Allegheny, who made such a sensation in Congress by his Reconstruction Speech, is the choice of the Western Radicals, but his friends scarcely hope to give him more than a complimentary vote, and thus place him on the list of succession to Mr. Buckalew, four years hence. Judge Kelley of Philadelphia, who has a wide national reputation, and who, next to Thaddeus Stevens, is the representative of our Pennsylvania Radicals in Congress, will be supported by some of the northern districts very strongly. He may have one or two votes in Philadelphia, but I imagine the Cameron and Curtin influence will entirely eliminate that.

Mr. Grow, the former Speaker, has the merit of coming from the northern districts, which all go Republican, and will of course exercise a predominating influence in the Republican causes. The friends of Mr. Grow think that, in case of an "irrepressible conflict" between Curtin and Cameron, he will be taken up as a kind of compromise candidate.

This is also the hope of Col. Forney and his friends. Col. Forney has the advantage of having been first in the field, and is making strenuous exertions to secure the nomination. His speech at Lebanon, the night before last, was the beginning of his canvass, and I am told that he is about to travel through the State in the interest of Geary and himself. Lancaster county will go for Cameron, although Forney's friends have had hopes that his native town would give him its influence. In Philadelphia, I imagine he will receive no votes, as he is not personally as well known as either Cameron or Curtin, and has made as many enduring enmities as either, by the strong support he gave President Johnson during the first part of his administration, and the equally strong condemnation he has heaped upon it since. Mr. McMichael, the present mayor of Philadelphia, is the choice of the Union League of that city, one of the most powerful political organizations in the country, wielding a vast social influence, and commanding immense sums of money. He is the candidate of Protection, and, although straight upon the record, is inclined to Conservative views.

Another candidate is Winthrop W. Ketcham, from Wyoming, of whom less is known, but report speaks favorably. He has served several terms in the Legislature, and has been the constant choice of his section for Senate. He began active life as a school teacher in Philadelphia, and then settled as a lawyer in Wyoming County, where his influence as a politician is commanding.

The canvass is exciting very great interest here just now, and I send you this creed that you may be informed of what is going on. As new developments arise, I shall acquaint you from time to time, for the question of the Senatorship of 1867 is the knottiest problem that has yet been propounded even to Pennsylvania politicians.

Interesting Concerning the Chinese.

In an article recently contributed to the Fortnightly Review by Sir John Bowring, appear some traits of Chinese character. Sir John's travels and residence in China made him intimately acquainted with the habits and foibles of this strange people, and his descriptions are given in a very interesting and attractive narrative.

It is not uncommon in China, when a criminal is sentenced to death for his offenses, to obtain a substitute, who, for a reasonable compensation, say five or six hundred dollars, will act as the prisoner's proxy in undergoing the death penalty. The authorities readily permit the substitution, because by their laws, so justice is vindicated in the person of somebody, it is a matter of supreme indifference whether he is the offender or not.

On one occasion six Englishmen were brutally murdered at a small village on the Pearl river. The English Government insisted on the punishment of the murderers, and six men were publicly beheaded. It was very certain they had nothing to do with the crime, and the Chinese know it, but being unable to catch the true murderers they thought the English would be equally as well satisfied (as they would have been under similar circumstances) with the lives of six other men.

Some Chinese troops once fired upon the British settlement of Shanghai. No injury was done, but the act was of a character which might have led to serious consequences. A complaint was made to the great mandarin. On entering his tent the Englishman found six Chinese soldiers kneeling by his side. Close at hand was an executioner, and the huge, heavy swords were visible which he usually employed in his work "It was quite right to complain," said the mandarin; "it was quite fit those who had committed the outrage should be visited with the punishment. Inquiries had been made and it was quite likely the men present were guilty [illegible] neighborhood. Utter the word and their heads shall fall at your feet." Both the mandarin and the terrified soldiers were surprised (the latter equally so) when the English asked the release of the men, because unwilling that the innocent should suffer vicariously for the guilty. The mandarin dismissed the soldiers, merely telling them that they owed their lives to the clemency of the "outside barbarians."

When the French embassy was going up the Peiho, an outrage was committed on a Frenchman by a Chinaman, who was arrested, and condemned to death. A deputation waited on the ambassador, bringing with them an old, man whom they wished to be hanged instead of the man who had committed the offense. They said it would no difference to the ambassador whether the old man or the young was executed. The death of either would show that punishment would follow injuries of that character done to the French. They were told that European usages required that the criminal should suffer for the crime. The next day they came to offer "a better bargain" to the ambassador, and brought two men to offer in expiation of the offense of one.

They have manufacturers of false noses in China, but none of false teeth. A mandarin who was anxious to learn something about the making of teeth, produced to Sir John Bowring a box full of artificial noses, of various sizes and colors, with which he supplied the defects of his own. He said he used one sort of nose before another after his meals, and insisted that the Chinese ingenuity was greater than that of the English.

It used to be believed in China that no pure metal was produced outside of the Celestial Empire, and that coins brought from afar, would in process of time be converted, by natural means into base metal, or something worse. A person was charged with stealing his master's money; he did not deny having had the custody of the dollars, but swore they had been eaten by white ants. Keshen (a Chinese sage) was directed by the Emperor to give his opinion as to the quality of the silbrought to China by foreigners, and these are his words:

"The foreign money brought from these outer nations is all boiled and reduced by quicksilver. If you wrap it up and lay it aside for several years without touching it, it will be turned into moths and corroding insects, and the silver cups made from it by these barbarians will change into feathers."

Probably Keshen had read in our sacred scriptures that "moth and rust do corrupt," and of the "riches" which "make to themselves wings and fly away."

Faces on the Battle Field.

[From Dickens' All the Year Round.

After the battle of Inkerman the faces of many of the dead still wore a smile, while others had a threatening expression. Some lay stretched on their backs, as if friendly hands prepared their burial. Some were still resting on one knee, their hands grasping their muskets. In some instances the cartridge remained between the teeth, or the musket was held in one hand, and the other was uplifted as though to ward off a blow or appealing to Heaven. The faces of all were pale as though cut in marble. As the wind swept across the battle field it waved the hair, and gave the bodies such an appearance of life that a spectator could hardly help thinking they were about to rise to continue the fight.

Another surgeon, describing the appearance of the corpses on the field of Magenta, says that they furnish indubitable proof that man may cease to exist without suffering the least pain. Those struck on the head generally lay with their faces on the ground, their limbs retaining the position they were in at the intant they were struck, and most of these still held their rifles, showing that when a ball entered the brain it causes such a sudden contraction of the muscle that there is not time for the hand to loose its hold of the weapon before death.

Another peculiarity observed in the case of those who were wounded in the brain was the suddenness with which they died, even when suspected to be out of danger. During the battle of Solferino, a rifleman was wounded in the head by a ball which passed through the skull and buried itself in the brain. His wound was dressed, and he was stretched on straw, with his head resting on his knapsack, like his wounded comrades. He retained the full use of his faculties, and chatted about his wound almost with indifference, as he filled his pipe and lay smoking it. Nevertheless, before he had finished it, death came upon [illegible] same attitude, with his pipe between his teeth. He had never uttered a cry, or given any sign that he was suffering pain. In cases where the ball had entered the heart, nearly the same appearances were presented as in the cases of those who had been struck in the brain; death was what we term instantaneous, but it was not quite so swift as in the former case; there was generally time for a movement in the act of dying.

There was a Zouave, who had been struck full in the breast; he was lying on his rifle, the bayonet was fixed, and pointing in such a way as showed that he was in the act of charging when struck. His head was uplifted, and his countenance still bore a threatening appearance, as if he had merely stumbled and fallen, and was in the act of rising again. Close by him lay an Austrian foot soldier, with clasped hands and uplifted eyes, who had died in the act of praying. Another foot soldier had fallen dead as he was in the act of fighting, his fists were closed, one arm was in the act of warding off a blow, and the other was drawn back in the act of striking. On another battle field several French soldiers lay in a line, with their bayonets pointing in the direction of the foe they were advancing against, when a storm of grape mowed them down.

HUGGING THE WRONG MAN.—An amusing incident occurred at the depot in Manchester, N. H., on Monday, which has been related to us by an eye-witness. A train had just arrived with a detachment of New Hampshire soldiers. A blooming maiden who was present for the purpose of welcoming her long absent soldier lover, caught sight of him, and, with outstreched arms, started to embrace him. Just at that moment the crowd had become so great that the soldiers were pressed aside, and the lady, missing her calculations, caught another bronzed hero in her arms, at the same time giving him a rousing "smack." The soldier, who had never retreated on the battle field, started back with fright, exclaiming, as he did so, "Who in the d——l are you?" The large crowd in attendance, while they sympathized with the lady in her mistake, could not repress a hearty laugh at her expense.—Vermont Record.

☞Says the European Times: Nothing can show more strongly the adaptability of the Americans for all pursuits than the ease with which all the men of note in the late war have slided from the military into commercial life, and the same may be said of the great body of the soldiers on each side.

☞Women think, like historians, that no age is so barbarous as the middle ages.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

W. Lewis, Editor and Proprietor.
Hugh Lindsay, Associate Editor.

Wednesday morning, July 11, 1866.

FOR GOVERNOR,

Maj. Gen. John W. Geary,

OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

"I am as good a Democrat now as ever I was.—W. Lewis.

"Of course you are, no person doubts it. And when you pretended to wear the cloak of Unionism you did it only for the purpose of aiding your party."—Journal & American.

Of course we did. Unionism was the battle-cry of all Democrats true to their principles. Our party was the party composed of the good and true men of all parties—the Union Party—the party that stood by the Government — re-nominated and re-elected President Lincoln and Governor Curtin—and nominated and elected Andy Johnson. It was a glorious and harmonious party until Radicalism and negroism wanted to baptise in the black sea of fanaticism every independent man who dared to desert old party associations. Without the aid of the Union Democratic voters neither Abraham Lincoln, Andy Johnson nor Andy G. Curtin, and many others, could have been elected or re-elected, and if Radicalism succeeds in disorganizing the Union Party, the "Democratic" organization of the present day must triumph with its candidates at the next election, not only in this State, but also in most every State in the Union. If the Journal & American would be wise, and honestly opposed to the success of the "Democratic organization," it should use its influence to preserve harmony in the Union party instead of hatching and encouraging disorganization.

We are a Democrat—a Union Democrat—and a member of the Union party. It is not necessary for us to be anything else to be a good Union man. If others of the Union Party choose to be known as Union Republicans, we have no fault to find, so long as they show by their works that they are true friends of the Union Party organization.

"The resolutions (of the Soldiers' League) in regard to the Globe were not as complimentary as they might have been, but as the editor of that paper has heretofore been very anxious to have the whole proceedings of the League we hope he will now find it convenient to publish them in full."—Journal & American.

Slightly disappointed, Robert. The proceedings were published in full in the Globe, but they were not plotlished ~~were in~~ your paper. You thought we would not publish the resolutions, written by yourself, advising the reading us out of the Union Party. What impudence, and what asses a few soldiers have made of themselves to gratify such men as Robert McDivitt. The soldiery of the county would justly feel insulted if we should hold them responsible for the silly conduct of the few men who are made the tools of mischievous and unprincipled politicians. We have no objections to being "read out," but we have objections to being "read in" by such material—and until we are "in" it is a hard matter to "read out." We hope Robert feels good over the success of his resolution.

We laid a copy of the proceedings of the League meeting before the State Committee, but we have not learned what action was had on Robert's resolution.

President Johnson, we are informed, after he heard that the Soldiers' League had refused him membership, declared that it was the first heavy show of a heavy opposition to his policy, and he was almost tempted to change it to suit the taste of the men who pull the wires of the League.

"The Huntingdon Globe has always been a Democratic paper."—Harrisburg Daily Telegraph.

"This is simply not so; it is not known as such, and would be repudiated by the Democracy if such pretensions were advanced."—Harrisburg Patriot & Union.

A certain kind of Doctors will differ, and they differ because they have no correct rule by which to regulate their practice. So with a certain kind of politicians—men who go with an organization right or wrong—they cannot see anything honest in a man who will not agree to sacrifice Democratic and loyal principles to gain place and power. If the old school Democratic organization had remained true to Democratic principles it would be in power to-day, and if the Union party organization follow the dictation of such papers as the Telegraph it will soon be in the minority, where the Democratic organization now is. We neither belong to the Telegraph's faction nor to the Patriot & Union's party. We are a party's man only when we believe it to be right, or more right than any other. We are no man's man unless we believe him right, or more right than those denouncing him. We are independent—not under the control of any man, faction or party. We shall continue to pursue a course we believe best calculated to promote the best interests and happiness of the people.—The editors of the Telegraph and Patriot & Union are right in not claiming us as belonging to them. We pick our company.

THE Huntingdon Globe, during all the rebellion a firm and useful Union paper is retracing its steps into the Democratic or Copperhead party. In stopping at the Andrew Johnson halfway house, the Globe seems to have lost its manners with its honesty.—John W. Forney.

The first two lines endorses us as all right on the vital issue.—Then comes an opinion which is only an opinion of one of the most desperate politicians in the United States. Forney has always been in earnest in whatever course he has pursued. He is no half-way man. He has used the Union party for four or five years, and now that he sees he cannot use it any longer, he has determined to crush it by forcing upon it false issues. We have admired Col. Forney's boldness in denunciation of "Copperheadism," but we cannot admire his denunciation of the principles of the Union Party. We contend that we stand fair and square upon the Union platform as erected by the Convention that put in nomination Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson—a platform upon which all Union men could stand, and did stand, and intend to stand, until it shall be destroyed by fanaticism. In what way we have lost our manners with our honesty we are at a loss to know. Perhaps the great leader thinks country editors should have no opinions of their own,—but if they have, they should not express them if they should be the opposite of his teachings. We have great respect for Col. Forney's ability, but we must be permitted to decline a seat on the new platform he has erected upon which he is trying to force the Union party. Colonel, we can't take a ride in your new wagon.

WE could not attend the meeting of the Union State Committee in Philadelphia on the afternoon of the 3d. Perhaps it was not important we should be there as Robert McDivitt was in the city and presented in person to the Chairman of the Committee the resolutions of the Soldiers' League reading us out. Robert no doubt wants the position himself, but as we have not yet received a notice of removal, we begin to think his resolutions were treated with silent contempt and himself ordered home to report to his "squad" of disorganizers that their labor has been lost—that they cannot have influence with rational men—men who love the Union party and its principles. A special meeting of the "squad" should be called that Robert may have an opportunity to report progress.

THE FLAG PRESENTATION.—Though every city in the Union celebrated the Fourth with a grand display, yet there was nothing so grand and imposing as the presentation of Pennsylvania battle flags to the Governor in Philadelphia. The crowd in attendance was immense, and though accommodations enough to seat five or six thousand had been prepared, yet a majority of the crowd had to stand. At the presentation the Soldiers' Orphans were not the least conspicuous, and their presence excited many patriotic emotions, as it was remembered that they were the sons of patriots slain. Major General Meade made the presentation address which was responded to by Gov. Curtin.

☞Will our friend Forney please inform us upon what rule of honest practice he has acted in maintaining in his employ in the Washington Chronicle a large number of rebels as well as rebel sympathizers throughout the trying ordeal through which our country has passed. That his office at the national capital has been an asylum for that class of persons is a fact patent to every printer almost who has visited Washington. Let men who preach loyalty and seek to control and direct the opinions as well as the actions of others, practice what they preach.

THE radicals headed by Forney, take the position that none beside themselves are entitled to be considered Unionists. They go even so far as to denounce all who will not bend the knee to universal negro suffrage as "Copperheads" in principle and action. And yet they expect men thus denounced to help to keep them in power. Why even Robert the Scribe had the impudence to expect "Copperheads" to keep him "on the county" for a few years more.

☞ Radicals persist in saying that President Johnson is in favor of allowing rebels a seat in Congress. This is owing to a remark made by him that none but unmistakably loyal men should be permitted to serve as members from the Southern States. If Radicals are determined to interpret "unmistakably loyal" into "rebel," then we would ask them who were the loyal men, and what are they themselves, who, we take it, were the professionally loyal men of the North during the rebellion?

"What did the soldiers of the Union army fight for? It is easily answered."—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Forney, speaking for the Radicals, says "The war against slavery has not been fought in vain."

Andy Johnson men say the war was not against slavery but against traitors, and for the preservation of the Union.

THE secret is out why Forney is opposed to the President now. The President had no confidence in his political honesty, and gave him the cold shoulder. See Forney's letter to the President.

THE UNION PARTY.—When the war broke out we deserted the old Democratic organization and aided in the organization of the Union Party. When the Union Party organization, which stood by the government during the war and gave aid and comfort to our brave "boys in blue" becomes disorganized, we will feel it our privilege to go where we please to rally around the faithful and honest Union principles. We cannot be influenced to favor unprincipled politicians and disorganizers.

☞The radicals cannot find enough to say against President Johnson. We had thought since he keeps quiet they would let him alone. He is now charged with plotting the escape of Jeff. Davis. This is presuming greatly on the supposed ignorance of their constituents. Every schoolboy knows that the President has power to allow every prisoner to go free without plotting his escape. Such lies have their effect, however, some being ready to believe them.

THE unscrupulous denunciation of President Johnson and his friends, by the radical press, is making Johnson more friends all over the country than any efforts making by himself or friends to sustain their position. We know that Forney's Press and the Journal & American have made friends for Johnson in every township in this county, and they are not a few, but numerous and influential.

U. S. SENATOR.—Who shall be elected U. S. Senator by the next Legislature, is a question of great importance to every voter. The soldiers all appear to be for Andy Curtin, and a very large majority of the people of the Union party are the same way inclined. The friend of the soldier, the widow and the orphan, has the inside track.

COL. FORNEY, in his recent Lebanon speech defining his platform as a candidate for U. S. Senator, declared himself unqualifiedly for universal suffrage, without regard to color—Chambersburg Repository.

Just so. Then it is the duty of every man opposed to "universal suffrage without regard to color," to defeat any man for the Legislature who may be for Mr. Forney, for U. S. Senator.

PRESTO CHANGE.—Forney in his Press of Tuesday last says that what the "traitor and Copperhead newspapers" have heretofore said, slandering the character of President Johnson, was true, and what he said defending President Johnson, was false. Is it not just as likely that what Forney says now against the President is also false?

☞In the anti-Johnson men will ask the Radical Attorney General why traitors have not been prosecuted, and if it will ask Radical Judges of the United States Courts why traitors have not been tried, they will gain some information. It is not the duty of the President to prosecute nor to convict any man.

THE editor of the Harrisburg Telegraph supported the President's policy until he was removed from the Post Office to make room for a brave soldier. The President know the political honesty of the editor of the Telegraph about as well as he did Forney's. Neiher of them could deceive Andy Johnson.

☞It is thought that Congress will adjourn finally some time this month. Hot weather will put an end to their deliberations, but if we know ourselves, the members have had a hot time of it for the last six months. They will hate to adjourn very much, for fear "tyrant" Johnson will take advantage of them; but we can assure the people that we will then have peace.

☞The election campaign commences to open in earnest. Party nominations are being made, and politicians are dancing to a lively quickstep. The jig will be taken up with spirit and we may expect a lively time generally within the next three months.

[Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.]

Forney's Letter to the President.

WASHINGTON, July 1, 1866.

Recently it was asserted in the Washington correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial, that John W. Forney had, within six months, written a begging letter to the President, indorsing his policy, etc. Forney promptly denied this. The matter has excited some interest here, and the President has finally consented to the publication of the following, which will appear in to-morrow's Republican. At the request of the President, the name of the gentleman alluded to in the letter is suppressed. It is not a bad guess, however, to say that it is Henry S. Stebbing, formerly member of New York. This is only the first of a series which a strong pressure is being brought to bear on the President to permit to be published:

NEW YORK, January 2, 1866.—MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: I have been in this city for two days, and now write under an impulse which I cannot restrain, because I feel it to be for your own good and that of the country. I take it for granted you are resolved not to be unmindful of your own fame and that you will not allow your friends who heartily sustain your policy to feel that they are without your aid and encouragement. Whether you are a candidate for President or not, and if you are not, I shall be greatly surprised, with the wonderful favor that has crowned your restoration policy. You should not allow the great office to go to indifferent men, or those clearly in the interest of your foes. I need not repeat to you that I am now as ever, for twenty years, shown in my writing, and since your great act of patriotism in 1860, especially your open and avowed friend. Where I am to-day my two newspapers both daily show to the world. Hence, in what I now say, I speak no idle words, but mean all I say. The Collector's office at New York city is a post that you should dispose of outside of all politicians; not that I mean to defy them, but to select your own man, who should be free only to help you and serve the Government—one they could neither attack nor use. Such a man is * * * of this city. He was elected to Congress on * * * as a Democrat, but, like you, refused to follow the party into treason. He served a short time with great distinction, and resigned on account of ill health. He was a member of the Committee of Ways and Means, and won great applause. He is a very able man, educated to finance intensely, national, honest and independent, and could furnish millions of security. He has an organizing mind, would make you a party or fight your battles single handed. He is an Andrew Johnson Democrat, in short I write in the knowledge that he would accept, and that his appointment would be received with joy by the whole community.

Yours truly,
[Signed,] J. W. FORNEY.
To the President, &c., &c.

The "National Union Party."

A Convention of National Union men, friends of President Johnson, was held in Philadelphia on the 3d inst. About seventy-five delegates from different parts of the State were present. A State Central Committee was appointed, and the following resolutions reported by a committee appointed for the purpose, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas it is expedient and proper at this time that the friends of the national administration and supporters of the policy it has adopted in relation to the restoration of the States to full and equal membership in the national Union, should declare their views and organize themselves for mutual advice, support, and action; therefore

Resolved, That this convention reaffirm the doctrines and principles enunciated by the Baltimore convention, and that we believe, as there declared, that the war was prosecuted for the purpose of preventing the dissolution of the Union.

Resolved, That inasmuch as the war prosecuted by the government was successful, the States recently in rebellion are still in the Union, and are, therefore, under the Constitution entitled to representation in the Senate and House of Representatives, and that there can be no compromise or settlement of the questions now agitating the country until such representation is accorded, provided always that none other than loyal men are entitled to seats in either house.

Resolved, That the political and social welfare of the national republic is based upon and bound up with the prosperity of our home labor, and we look upon the protection of the industrial interests of the country—agricultural, mining, manufacturing, and commercial—against the antagonistic and unequal competition of foreign countries, as one of the most important duties of the national legislature.

Resolved, That the country owes a debt of gratitude to the soldiers and sailors who composed the army and navy of the United States in the recent war for the suppression of the rebellion against the government, and that their widows and children are the wards of the people, and as such should ever be provided for by the government.

Resolved, That this convention proceed to the organization recommended by the appointment of a central executive committee, to consist of thirteen members, which committee shall have authority to call meetings, select speakers, and generally to do all things essential to the success of the administration of President Johnson.

Resolved, That auxiliary committees shall be appointed by the clubs hereafter named, in each congressional district, to whom shall be committed the supervision and care of the congressional, legislative, and other elections to be held therein.

Resolved, That "National Union Clubs" shall be formed in each scool district of the State, or otherwise, as the congressional committee shall recommend; that all persons who will pledge fidelity to the Constitution and the Union and faithful support to the restoration policy of President Johnson, shall be admitted as members of said clubs.

Resolved, That the said clubs are fully authorized to select delegates to all conventions for the nomination of candidates who are presented for the support of the party.

Resolved, That we heartily approve of holding a "National Union Convention" of the friends of Andrew Johnson on the 14th day of August next, at Philadelphia, and in order that Pennsylvania may be fully represented therein, we do hereby nominate and appoint four citizens as delegates at large, and four other citizens as alternates.

Whereas this convention not being called to recommend any action in relation to State officers, therefore

Resolved, That the clubs are requested to elect and send delegates equal in number to their respective representation in the General Assembly, to meet in Philadelphia on the 14th day of August next, then and there to take such action as may be best calculated to carry into effect the determination of the friends of President Johnson, to use their votes and influence in such manner as may secure the immediate restoration of all the States to their constitutional resolutions to the general government.

Committee.

ADDRESS OF A. G. CURTIN.

Delivered 4th of July, '66, at Philadelphia

A large multitude had assembled in Independence Square, to witness the ceremonies attendant to the presentation of battle flags to the Commonwealth Gen. Meade had the honor of making the presentation speech, which was responded to by Gov. Curtin, as follows:

General, and Soldiers of Pennsylvania: Soon after the commencement of the late Rebellion, the Cincinnati Society of Pennsylvania presented to the Governor of the State a sum of money which they asked to be used in the equipment of volunteers. The sum was too small to be of material service in that respect, and the subject having been presented to the Legislature, an act was passed directing the Governor to use the money, and whatever additional sums were neccessary, to procure flags to be carried by Pennsylvania regiments during the war, and with a wise provision, that the flags should be returned to the State at the close of their service, with proper inscriptions, to be made archives of the Government. The ceremony of the return of these flags was delayed until all the regiments in service from Pennsylvania had been mustered out, and to-day, surrounded by your fellow citizens and in the presence of high officials of the National Government, of Governors and officials of sister States, of distinguished soldiers of other States, and of the army and navy of the United States, and the representatives of the Government of this Commonwealth, more than two hundred of these emblems of our country's nationality—all of which have waved amid the rupture of strife—all of which have been carried by Pennsyvanians—are returned untarnished. In their azure fields the arms of Pennsylvania have been emblazoned, and her motto, "Virtue, Liberty and Independence," has been written in letters of fire, with pens of steel, by the gallant men before us, and their comrades, living and dead, upon every battle field of the war. The record is glorious, in memories of the past and in hopes of the future.

If I consulted my own feelings, I would receive these flags in silence, for this occasion is its own most eloquent orator. My words cannot add to its sublimity. Human lips cannot express such lessons of patriotism, of sacrifice and heroism as these sacred relices sublimly attest. The man is to be pitied, who claims to be a citizen of our America, especially of Pennsylvania, who has witnessed these ceremonies without profound emotion alike of sorrow and exultation—sorrow for the dead who died for liberty, exultation in recalling the blessings of God, the laws vindicated and enforced by the suppression and punishment of treason, until the last armed Rebel was beaten down, and the redeemed Republic emerged from the smoke of battle.

It might be better to accept the momentous lessons taught by these returned standards without a word. In what adequate language can we address you, soldiers of the Republic, who live to take part in this ceremony? We have no words to convey the holy sentiment of veneration and reverence for the heroic dead that wells up from every heart in your presence.

To the men who carried the steel, the musket and the sabre—to the private soldier, to the unknown dead, the demigods of the war, we this day seek in vain to express all our gratitude. If there be men more distinguished than others, more entitled to our highest veneration, it is the private soldier of the Republic. If we follow him through all the sufferings and privations of the service, his long weary marches, his perils on the out post, his wounds and sickness, even in the article of death, we trace him back to that sentiment of devotion to his country that led him to separate from home and its ties, and to offer even his life a sacrifice to the Government his fathers gave him and his children.

As the official representative of the Commonwealth, I cannot take back the remnants of the colors she committed to your keeping, without attempting to gather into my arms the full measure of her overflowing gratitude and lay it at your feet. I therefore present you with the thanks of your cherished mother, this ancient and goodly Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the great glory you have given to her history. She fully realizes, and while public virtue remains, she will never cease to realize that she could better afford to lose the sources of her natural wealth, her rich, fertile valleys, her great cities, her exhaustless minerals, than to lose from her archives a single one of these torn, faded, precious, consecrated flags of battle and its history, and of the brave men who suffered and fought around them. A Commonwealth may exist without cherishing her material wealth, but no Commonwealth can worthily, or should exist, which does not cherish as the joy of its life, the heroic valor of its children.

In the name of Pennsylvania I gave you these standards, fresh and whole, and asked you, in all trials, to maintain your loyalty, and defend them, and to day you bring them back to me torn with Rebel shot, sad with the gloom of some reverses, bright with the light of many triumphs, but beyond all, saved by your courage from dishonor, reddened, by the blood of your dead brothers, borne over the ridges of a hundred battles, and planted at last upon the summits of victory. Surely State never had nobler children, nor received at their hands more precious gifts. What heroism, excelling the fables of romance, leading forlorn hopes, charging into the "deadly breach;" "riding into the jaws of death till all the world wondered." What sufferings of pain and hunger, outrage and death; what ardent love of country; what purest love of home; what tender messages to mother, wife, children and betrothed maiden; what last prayers to God, do these old and tattered flags, suggest and unfold.

The State will guard them reverently and lovingly until, in the fullness of time, some genius will arise to marshal their legions into the immortal beauty of poetry, and then, at last, will be found fit expression for the part Pennsylvania has acted in the bloody drama. It will then be remembered that our State was represented at Fort Sumter, when traitors first fired upon the flag of the Union, and that the volunteers of our State first reached the National Capital, and were at Appomattox Court House, where traitors fired their last volley, and in all the terrible intermediate struggles in every rebellious State, in every important battle on land and water, where treason was to be confronted and rebellion to be conquered the soldiers and sailors of Pennsylvania were to be found confronting the one and conquering the other, that her people never faltered in their fidelity to their distressed Government.

It was in due historic fitness, therefore, that the wicked struggle to destroy the Union, should culminate upon our soil, its topmost wave be dashed against our Capital, and its decisive defeat be suffered here, and accordingly, from Gettysburg the Rebellion staggered backward to its grave.

Alas, how many other graves it filled before it filled its own. How many brave and familiar faces we miss today who helped to bear these colors to the front, and on whose graves are growing the wild flowers of the Southern land.

Our words can no longer reach them, nor our gratitude serve them; but we thank Heaven that those they loved better than life, are with us; that the widow of the war, and orphan children of the soldiers, are within the reach of our cherishing care. We must never forget that every soldier of Pennsylvania, who died that the nation might live thereby, entitled his widow to be kept from want, and his fatherless children to find a father in the Commonwealth.

May the flags which we fold up so tenderly, and with such proud recollections, never be unfurled again, at least in such a war; and may all mankind, beholding the surpassing power of this free Government, abandon forever the thought of its destruction. Let us remember, too, that at Gettysburg the blood of the people of eighteen loyal States—rich, precious blood—mingling together, sank into the soil of Pennsylvania, and by that red covenant, are we pledged for all time to Union, to liberty, to nationality, to fraternity, to "peace on earth and good will towards men," of good will. Now that the war is over, we give peace to those who gave us war. And in the universal freedom, purchased at so large a cost of blood and treasure, we give true justice to all men. Under the benediction of even justice to all, and inviting them to obedience to the law, to industry and virtue, we offer them the glories of the future, and the sacred blessings of freedom for them and their children. We ask them to forget their malice and hate, and the counsels of the insane and wicked men who first led them to strike at the heart of their country, and to return to a participation in the rich rewards in store for this, the freest and most powerful nation on earth.

But for you, and your comrades, rebellion would have become revolution, and the enemies of freedom and united nationality would have achieved their infamous purposes. Under God we triumphed. The right has been maintained. And to you, in the name of all the people of this great Commonwealth, I tender thanks, warm, deep, heartfelt thanks! May your lives be spared long to enjoy the Government you saved, to illustrate your country's grandeur, and to enjoy the priceless blessings which must follow from the results of courage, fidelity and patriotism.

The State of Pennsylvania, during all your services, has not been unmindful of you. You were followed to the battle-fields by the benedictions and prayers of the good, and benevolent people carried to you the contributions of the patriotic and generous at home. Never, at any time during the war, did this constant benevolence shrink, and always good, Christian men and women were found willing to endure privation and suffering, to reach you on the field and in the hospital. So far as it was possible the State always made ample provisions for the removal of the bodies of the slain for Christian interment, amid their kindred and friends. When it was practicable, the sick and wounded were removed to enjoy the tender watching and care of their friends at home. And as the crowning glory of this great Commonwealth, she has gathered together the helpless and destitute orphans of her dead soldiers, and adopted them as the children of the Commonwealth.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania, moved by justice and Christian charity, for three years, have made munificent appropriations of the public money to place within the care of the State, the homeless little ones of your dead comrades. They are to be brought up as the honor and glory of the State, a monument that Pennsylvania raises to the memory of the slain, more enduring than brass or marble, and in harmony with the Christian teachings of her people. Here are twelve hundred of these little children before you today, the children of comrades left upon the field of battle, bright jewels in the crown of glory which encircles this Commonwealth, the strongest evidence of the fidelity and patriotism of her people. Let this work be so now engrafted upon the public policy of the State, that it shall endure until the last orphan of the Pennsylvania soldier shall be trained, nurtured and educated.

This is a hallowed place—this is a hallowed day. Here, and now, in the name of Pennsylvania, I accept these colors fitly, for we are assembled upon the birthday in the birth place of American liberty.

We are forced to contemplate the wondrous march of this people to empire, colonization, the Revolution, the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Rebellion, its overthrow, and the purification of our Government, and the change of our organic laws by the lesson of discord, and our hopes for the future, following each other in logical sequence, and the duty and responsibility of this labor of mankind, is devolved, by the grace of God and the hearts and arms of our soldiers, upon the loyal people of this land.

In the presence of these mute symbols of living soldiers (pointing to the flags), of yonder touching memorials of our dead soldiers (pointing to the children), in fealty to the blood poured out like water; in remembrance of the sorrows yet to be assuaged, and the burdens yet to be borne, the graves yet to be numbered, and the horrors yet to be forgotten; in loyalty to our State, to our country, to our fellowmen everywhere and to God, let us rise to the height of our great privileges, and place the American Government upon the enduring basis of justice and liberty. This is the great lesson of the war; and the very rock of political truth. "Whosoever falls upon it will be broken and upon whomsoever it shall fall it will grind him to powder."

Then our Government will represent the result of American civilization, and then these old flags will glow with the light of there true meaning, and the valor of the soldiers of the Republic will receive its just reward in rendering a memorable service to mankind; for then, in the words of our illustrious martyr, we will take care "that the Government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

And now, having received these standards, he who addresses you has performed the last official act connected with the military service of the war, and his relations to you, so long, so intimate, and so cordial, are severed.

In this, our last official interview, when the ties that bound us so close for these eventful years, just passed, and the relations so intimate, so cordial, are closing, he would be insensible to the common fidelity, to the pleasant relations, to the forgiveness of error, to the ready and generous support, and the many, very many, evidences of kindness and affection he has received from you and your comrades, if he failed to express to you his personal obligation and thanks. He recurs with gratification to the fact that he did for the soldier what he could. He regrets that he could not have done more. But he will carry with him to his grave, and leave as a rich legacy to his children, the consciousness that you, at least, believed that he did what he could for his distressed country, and that after the experience of five eventful years, the soldiers of Pennsylvania deem him worthy of their confidence and respect.

And here, on this last occasion of the war, he returns his thanks to the great body of the people of Pennsylvania, for their kindness and support, and to the thousands of benevolent women and men, who were always ready to obey his calls to the succor and relief of their brave and gallant brethren in the field. I have done. Farewell, brave men. May God bless you!

FORTY-FIVE clerks were lately discharged from the Pension office, Washington, to make room for partially disabled soldiers. Of course all those discharged will be violent anti-Johnson men.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

ASSOCIATE JUDGE.

MR. LEWIS:

I see in the Huntingdon Journal and American, the name of DAVID STARR, Esq., made use of for the office of Associate Judge. I am pleased to see it—no better man in the county could be named, nor any more worthy. His long experience as a Justice of the Peace, his honesty and independence, fully qualifies him for that office. I have consulted with a number of persons on the subject, and find that he will secure a general support, if nominated by the Union Convention of this county. A SUBSCRIBER.

June 28, 1866.-tc.*

WM. LEWIS, Esq:—It will be admitted that the lower end of the county is entitled to the nomination for Associate Judge. In view of this fact I would recommend the name of SAMUEL DUVITT, Esq., of Clay township, to the attention of the voters, as a gentleman who is worthy and well qualified to perform the duties of the position,—Subject to the Union nominating County Convention.

July 8, 1866. UNION.

Brief Items.

—There will be preaching in the German Reformed Church next Sabbath evening.

—The time of running of trains on the Pennsylvania Central has been changed. See schedule.

—"A friend of truth" is respectfully informed that we cannot take the responsibility of publishing his "article."

—Many of our citizens are improving the appearance of their houses by having them painted and repaired.—The spirit of improvement is onward.

—Very few of our exchanges came to hand this week, an indication that the printer boys were enjoying the Fourth. The Globe published as usual.

—The Soldiers Orphans in school at Cassville, this county, were in Philadelphia on the Fourth, and participated in the festivities of the day at the flag presentation.

—Mr. Thomas Burchinell has the framework up of a planing mill, on his property near the Cottage Grove.—This will be one of the institutions of this place when put in operation, which will be before long.

—The Fourth was celebrated as usual in the ancient borough. The Methodist Sunday School had a pic-nic at the Cottage Grove, which was interfered with by the rain. A large party also visited the Warm Springs.

—The Reading Times says: Holders of bills on the Venango and Petroleum banks should not sacrifice them as they are all secured by deposits in Harrisburg. Crawford county and Oil City bills are not secured, and are worthless, except as waste paper.

—Maj. Moore, of Petersburg, while endeavoring to separate two men who were fighting in front of his store on the evening of July 3d, was struck on the head by one of them with a heavy piece of iron, and a serious wound inflicted. The guilty man is a German named Frelinghuysen. He was arrested and is now in jail.

—The county of Huntingdon, we learn, was better represented at the celebration in Philadelphia than any other county in the State. One who was there states that there were over four hundred of our people present.—This is an evidence of Mother Huntingdon's patriotism.

—To-day, sixteen years ago, the first train passed westward over the Penna. Railroad through this place.—"What wondrous changes since sixteen years ago!" Now, about forty-five trains, freight and passenger, pass here daily. In those sixteen years Huntingdon might have been a city, but we think it will take sixteen more to make it.

—Saturday and Sunday last were the hottest days of the season. The weather was what might be styled sweltering hot. A faint idea may be conveyed of the intensity of the heat (which we suppose all experienced, however,) when we state that the thermometer stood 98° in the shade. A delightful rain succeeded on Monday, which was a blessing in many particulars.

—The lead and zinc mines about a mile south-west of Birmingham, this county, are still in working condition. The lead works are being built near the railroad at Birmingham. We learned that about two thousand tons of lead ore had already been taken out, which had been found in quantities, no vein having yet been struck. The work will be prosecuted with renewed vigor when the works are completed.

—A correspondent of the Johnstown Tribune, who reports the base ball match at this place, on the 2d, writes as follows:—"The playing was excellent on both sides. Bailey of the Social, and Montgomery of the Kicks, we observed, were severally applauded for fly catches in the far outer field.—Both clubs acquitted themselves handsomely, as gentlemen, and as players. No accident happened, nor did anything occur to mar the pleasure of the parties; the utmost good feeling prevailed. The Kicks shall ever bear in kind remembrance the courteous treatment they received from the members of the Social club, and the ladies and gentlemen of Huntingdon."

Match Game.

Another match game of base ball was played on the grounds of the Social on Monday, July 2, between the first nine of the Kickaneapawling, of Johnstown, and the first nine of the Social. We have never had the pleasure of witnessing a game that excited so much interest in outsiders, or in which the players exhibited so much earnestness to win. Both the clubs were organized in May last, the Kickaneapawling the first of the month and the Social the latter part. We understand that some of the members of the Kick's (for short) nine were old players, while none of the Social's nine ever played a game of base ball before organization; but notwithstanding these odds, the Kick's found a worthy opponent in our boys. Another disadvantage sustained by the Socials was losing Kooker, who occupied the 1st base, the most important position in the field. Mr. Kooker took sick at the conclusion of the third innings, and another man was substituted. Our boys were not sanguine of victory, but yet they fought hard and well to obtain it, and after the fourth innings began to gain on the Kicks, but the latter club, feeling very desirous to win at the last innings fought surpassingly well, and beat the Socials by two runs. The Johnstown nine were hospitably entertained at the Exchange Hotel, at the conclusion of the game. The Social will play the return match on the Kick's grounds, as soon as they find it convenient, which we hope will be before long. The following is the score of the game:

May 20, 1866.

—A correspondent from Clay township sends us the following items. Let others do likewise: "The spring has been very dry. The wheat crop is poor; rye looks middling; the corn is very small for this time of year, and hay also will be short and very late.—Our farmers have not mown any yet, and I think their barns will not be as full as usual.——The Broad Top and New Grenada Oil Company is still in progress; the derrick has been erected, and the engine is on the ground all ready for work in a short time." The letter was written June 28th.

THE Monitor can tell the truth when it tries. The last number gives us the following notice:

"Whatever we or others may think of the editor of the Globe, every body knows that the soldiers had no warmer friend than he, and that when the politicians who are now using the "Boys" for their own purposes, were endeavoring to nominate civilians, Lewis stood by the soldiers and as the result we have three maimed soldiers now holding good offices in this county. These are facts, and the "Boys in Blue" only make themselves laughing stock by denouncing Lewis."

☞Some of the soldiers who voted under the lash of Robert McDivitt, to read us out, told us after the adjournment of the League, that that action was all wrong and would be made right at the next meeting. As we have no favors to ask from men who can be used by Robert McDivitt, and such as him, we hope they will not take a step backward.

"He (Lewis) is a Clymer-Johnson-Jeff. Davis Democrat."—Jour. & Am.

Two-thirds a lie. We can come nearer the truth without half trying. We are a Geary-Johnson Union man, and Robert McDivitt is a "Robert McDivitt"-free love Republican, for himself first, and for himself last, and particularly against all men who have ever been nursed in the lap of Democracy.

☞The Journal & American wants to be considered the organ of General Geary's friends in this county. Some time ago—just previous to Geary's nomination—that paper said that any man who had been nursed in the lap of Democracy could not be trusted.—Gen. Geary was a Douglas Democrat. Geary may well exclaim, "Save me from such friendship!"

THE Journal & American goes a step beyond most Republican papers—it endorses Forney on his negro suffrage platform. Radicalism has for its foundation stone, negro suffrage and negro equality. We can't go that kind of Radicalism—the Journal & American is welcome to all the honors it can gain by being the organ of such a faction.

Tribute of Respect.

WHEREAS, Almighty God has, in His providence, deprived us of a tried friend and faithful associate, W. F. KINSLEY, a member of the Social Base Ball Club; therefore,

Resolved, That in this dispensation we acknowledge the supreme will of Him who doeth all things well, and bow in humble submission to His omnipotence.

Resolved, That we as fellow-members feel that we have sustained an irreparable loss which we deeply lament—a loss on the field, where he was always ready to attend, and where he showed by his activity and earnestness a devoted interest in doing whatsoever his hands found to do—a loss to society, where his cordial demeanor and words of cheer and assurance had endeared him to all that knew him—and a loss to the community, which has been berett of a good citizen and a promising young man.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt condolence to the parents and relatives of the deceased, and with them we mourn.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be preserved in the archives of the Club, and that a separate copy be presented to the parents of the deceased, and to the several papers of the town for publication.

On the 26th ult., by Rev. James C. Clarke, at the residence of the bride's parents, Huntingdon, Mr. GEO. COFFEY of Lock Haven, to Miss REBECCA CHAPLIN.

On the 28th ult., by the same, at the residence of officiating minister, Mr. THOMAS F. WHITE of Huntingdon, to Miss ELIZABETH E. ELY of Barree Forgo.

On the 1st inst., by Rev. W. P. Winbigler, Mr. ADAM CURKMAN to Miss ELIZABETH JOUNS, both of Huntingdon county, Pa.

On the 3d inst., by Elder T. Chenoworth Gessford, at the Jackson hotel, Mr. HENRY HAWN and Miss MAGGIE J. CORBIN, both of Juniata twp.

DIED,

At the residence of Mrs. L. C. Hall, Huntingdon, the evening of the 3d inst. WILBUR FISKE KINSLEY, aged 24 yrs., 10 months, and 13 days.

The deceased was a comparative stranger in this place, having been a resident only about three months, but by his generous disposition and christian character, had already made for himself many warm friends. When but ten years of age he obeyed the divine command "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and consecrated himself to the service of God. The grace of God sustained him in life for fourteen years, three of which were spent in the service of his country, (from 1862 to 1865,) and enabled him to triumph gloriously over the last enemy. We mourn for him, but not as those having no hope, for we confidently, through grace, expect to meet him again. B. M. G.

"Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

At the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Benedict, in this place, on the 3d inst., Mrs. Ross, aged about 89 years.

At the residence of her brother, Rev. James C. Clarke, of this place, on the 7th inst., LIZZIE CLARKE, aged 21 yrs., 10 months and 15 days.

"Gently!
She is sleeping;
She has breathed her last.
Gently!
While we were weeping,
She to Heaven past."

A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.

The next session of this Institution will open, TUESDAY JULY 31st., and continue for a term of eleven weeks.

The large attendance during the last term is an evidence that the efforts being made are duly appreciated. This School is recommended for its cheapness, and particularly for the healthfulness of the situation. It is connected with Mount Union, a station on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, from which it is distant seventeen miles, by a daily line of Stages. No efforts will be spared to make it one of the first schools of the land.

TERMS.—Boarding, Tuition and Room Rent, per session of eleven weeks, $15,00. One half at the commencement, and the balance at the close of the term. Music Extra.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all those complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

$1000 REWARD will be paid for any medicine that excels this for the following diseases:

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Spinal Affections, Contracted Joints, Cholic Pains, Pains in Side or Back, Toothache, Headache, Sprains, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, and all Diseases of the Muscles, Skin and Glands.

This is an Internal and External Medicine, composed of Roots, Herbs and Barks such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on the earth to cure all complaints, if we only knew what they were. This has been a subject for constant study with the Medical Faculty for a great many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what portions to use.

This wonderful remedy needs no recommendation save the results which invariably follow its application.

☞ This popular remedy is fast coming into use from the fact that it gives good satisfaction.

☞ PHYSICIANS are invited to test its efficacy in all cases of Rheumatism, Affections of the Spinal Column, and all Diseases of the Skin, Muscles and Glands. It has been used in thousands of instances under the personal supervision of the Inventors, and has never disappointed their expectations. All we ask for it is a trial—experimental proof—not the testimony of the men of straw, nor the vouchers we desire to present to the public.

It would be well for many now lying in beds of torture, if these facts could reach their sick chambers. It is more important to them than to the inventors that this should be the case. "Truth is mighty and must prevail."

☞ Keep it in your family, for sickness comes when you least expect it.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. "THE SOUTH!"

A tour of its battle fields and ruined cities; a journey through the desolated States, and talks with the people.

BY J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

From personal observations and experience during months of southern travel.

The author has had letters of introduction from men in high standing, to the head of all Government departments in the south, civil and military. Whatever is known by these men of the sufferings of the past, present condition of things, as well as plans for the future, will be made known in this book. The great popularity of the author, and intense interest in the subject, combine to make this by far the greatest selling book before the public, while our very liberal inducements present a rare chance for agents to make money.
